

In the two years since 'Cora Lou's Kids', various efforts are being made to bring more opportunities for creative expression to elementary students. Aside from the annual Spring Arts Festival and the 'Kids Day on the Farm,' area third graders will be included in a special movie making project this spring with Robinson Film Center of Shreveport. Local artists and executives from the Robinson Film Center will spend the winter months in the classroom assisting children in the scripting, costuming, set designs and eventual filming of their own movie. "Lights, Camera, Action" is a community outreach project of the Robinson Film Center and a grant from the Louisiana Division of the Arts, the Louisiana office of Culture, Recreation and Tourism and the Shreveport Regional Arts Council has made this all possible.
